

To whom it may concern,I've just been informed by my service provider (XM), that there are special interest groups whom most likely are not customers of XM radio that are interested in limiting XM's traffic updates.

For the record I'm apposed to this interest group, furthermore as all traffic reports are only opinions of traffic status, and not based on first hand accounts and deemed "an opinion" of traffic status and does not offend the public and or does not create a health and safety, nor break any FCC law, as Howard Sterns has repeatedly. Considering that opinions are protected by our freedom of speech amendment, I advocate the FCC support the continuation of this service which I happily paid for the last year.
